About the Conference

Communities nationwide face rising challenges, from natural hazards to aging infrastructure, underscoring the need for coordinated innovation across the built environment. Our infrastructure is a system of systems. The Building Innovation Conference is where we align those systems, and the people behind them, for maximum national impact. BI2026 brings together leaders from government, industry, and academia to strengthen national resilience through integrated, future-focused practices. Attendees will explore cross-sector policy alignment, digital delivery, building codes, housing solutions, capital investment strategies, and adaptive design, with special focus on Systems of Systems and Modular Offsite Construction. Participants can also earn AIA LU and ICC credits while collaborating to address the country's evolving infrastructure needs.

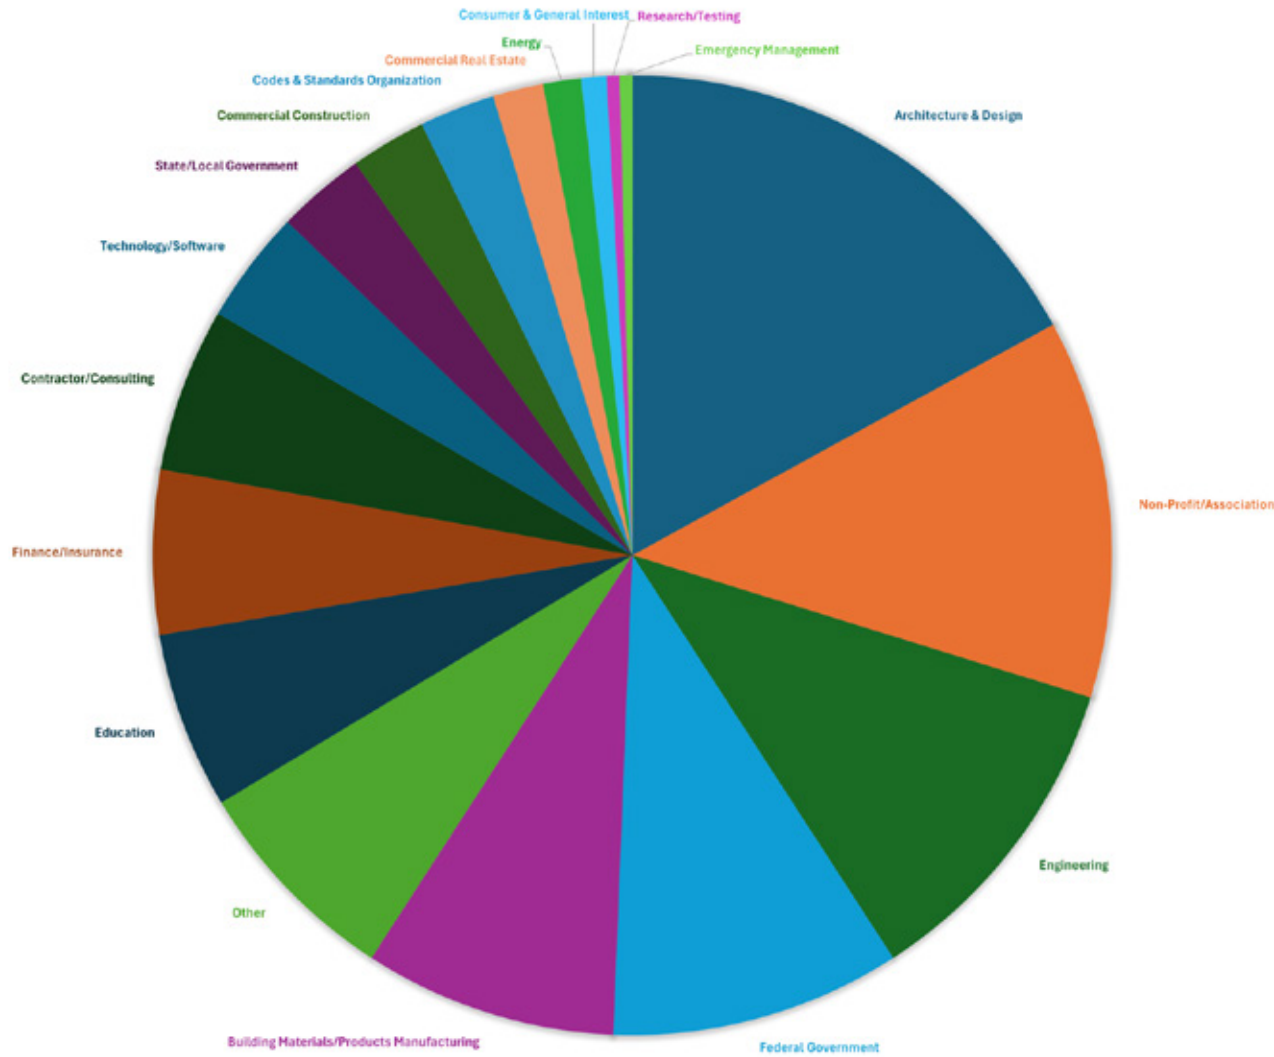

Why Sponsor BI2026?

- Influence policymakers shaping national resilience, housing, and infrastructure legislation.
- Elevate your brand alongside industry-defining innovation.
- Gain visibility through NIBS' cross-sector network and communications.
- Showcase your services and solutions to industry leaders and decision makers.

Participants can also earn AIA LU and ICC credits while collaborating to address the country's evolving infrastructure needs.
